

Labor Disclaimer

Centurion Stone of Iowa, LLC, a leading distributor of stone veneer products, has been providing high quality cultured stone products for nearly a decade. Centurion products are manufactured at a state of the art facility in Nashville, Tennessee. Our products are engineered to the highest of industry standards and are currently represented across the United States, Canada, Japan, and Europe.

A copy of Centurion, Inc's 50-year Pro-Rated Materials Warranty is available upon request.

Centurion Stone of Iowa, LLC, partners with many masonry sub-contractors for the installation of our products. We choose to work with only those contractors who have proven to exhibit the highest integrity and workmanship that will meet the high standards set by us, and that our customers expect. All of our masons are fully insured and provide a 2-year limited warranty on their stone installation. The following attributes are considered to enhance the character of the stone and should not be considered faults in installation: varying grout sizes, cut pieces, distribution of color tones, and seeping mortar (dry stack). This labor warranty does not cover any circumstances uncontrollable by the installer. This includes damaged or cracked stone due to: heaving concrete, shifting/twisting of columns framed with a non-masonry product, excessive settlement of building, acts of God.

Centurion Stone of Iowa, LLC is not responsible for water-proofing. Our stone products along with masonry grout, do allow minimal water penetration. Our masonry sub-contractors practice the latest, most up-to-date installation methods in attempt to avoid any water or moisture issues. Upon completion of all exterior projects, it is recommended that the customer caulk any areas of concern. These areas may include, but are not limited to; where wateredge meets siding, stone meets windows, or stone meets any other non-masonry material.

We do ask that the customer understand that stone is intended to look 'irregular' and 'imperfect', as these qualities contribute to the overall elegance and artful distinction that sets stone apart from other forms of masonry products.

Centurion Stone of Iowa, LLC, is determined to provide the construction industry with exceptional products and unmatched customer service, creating an overall experience that the customer will appreciate.

Centurion Stone... 'There is No Equal!'